Overview

VOC field assessments are designed to facilitate the ongoing assessment of trained individuals in their workplace environment. Completing these competency assessments ensures that correct procedures are being used in the workplace.

Competency Assessed

The Verification of Competency (VOC) for Overhead Gantry Crane and Slinging assesses an operator's ability to safely and effectively carry out lifting operations using a radio remote or pendant-controlled gantry crane.Operators are evaluated on their understanding of key safety and legal requirements, including hazard identification, load assessment, and safe lifting practices. This includes demonstrating correct procedures for slinging, lifting, travelling, and placing loads, as well as maintaining control of the crane throughout operations. The VOC focuses on verifying that operators can apply correct techniques when working with suspended loads, including selecting and using appropriate lifting equipment, maintaining load stability, and communicating effectively during lifting activities. Operators must also demonstrate safe pre-operational checks and general equipment awareness in line with workplace procedures. This assessment reflects the practical application of skills typically developed through gantry crane training and slinging unit standards such as 30072 and 3800, ensuring operators are working safely and competently in real-world environments.

Outcome

Upon completion, you will receive a VOC report outlining each trainee's areas of competency and any areas that may require further training or additional VOC checks in the future.
