Overview

Learn the essential skills for conflict de-escalation.

With increasing levels of aggressive and violent behaviour towards frontline staff, we need to arm our people with valuable practical skills to both de-escalate potential conflict situations but also know the safest way forward when required to use personal restraint.

Safety 'n Action are backed by several years of practical in-person and online training delivered to the healthcare sector, construction, retail and general front-line services sectors. Our training is backed by 20+ years of safety training delivery and is delivered by highly skilled training professionals.
